Learning and Embracing Life as a Family

THE BLOG'S MISSION

Educate and inspire parents along the journey of raising kids.

ABOUT THE BLOG

For 8 years, Day by Day in Our World has been a resource for all aspects of family life, particularly for homeschoolers.

Reviews and featured posts for products and services of interest to homeschooling families have been the cornerstone of our content for the past 7 years.

Additionally, Day by Day in Our World provides a variety of posts which cover multiple aspects of family life including practical solutions for meal times, style, entertainment, and travel.

ABOUT LAURA

Laura is a wife and a homeschooling mother of 4 boys, one who is now in college. Her love of education and helping others started at an early age.

Time as an undergraduate chemistry student saw her tutoring and teaching labs. A shift from science to business led to a passion for marketing and public relations, particularly in the nonprofit community.

When not involved with her family or community, she enjoys past times such as reading, playing the piano, kitchen, and traveling to new places.

Location: Anchorage, Alaska
